Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Dear officials of the court:

I think that the proposed settlement of the Microsoft case is slanted in favor of Microsoft. It permits them to continue doing many of the same anti-competetive things they've done for many years. This is more specifically outlined in the following document:

It seems that there's far more in the settlement that's favorable to Microsoft's continuing monopoly and anti-competetive tactics than there is to the entire remaining software development world - and that is bitterly wrong. Microsoft should not be crushed out of existence, but they should have to live in the same world as everyone else in their business, which has not been the case for far too long.

Thanks for your attention!
